

Originally posted at the Big Sky Basketball Shootout website (August 2007, Missoula, Montana):
<http://bigskyshootout.com/>

Jason Henry Wittrock Outstanding Shooter Trophy Awards

(1974-1994)

Jason was a fan of the game of basketball. He played for fun with family and friends. Though he never played any structured basketball, his love for the game as a fan was impeccable.

For 9 years, he watched the home teams play game after game after game. Early in his life, he was quick to recognize the importance of each player's contribution to the game. Jason hoped to be a Sport's writer and cover the game of Basketball some day. He was a Junior Journalism Major at the University of Oklahoma when his life ended tragically.

The Jason Henry Wittrock Outstanding Shooting Trophy Award is proudly presented, in his honor, on behalf of all of the fans of the game. He would be proud of this tribute on his behalf to the game of basketball, the greatest indoor sport ever played. Whether you play, aspire to play, or dream of playing some day, this game would not be the same without the FANS."

